

Easy read: I am unhappy about how my complaint was dealt with by the police. What do I do?

If you are unhappy with the way your complaint was dealt with, you might be able to ask for a review.

When you ask for a review, it is to see whether your complaint was dealt with in the right way.

When the police write to you, after they have looked at your complaint, they will tell you who to contact if you want a review.

Your review will be dealt with by:

- The Independent Office for Police Conduct (IOPC)

- The police force that your complaint was about.
- Or your local Police and Crime Commissioner.

The people who deal with your review will look at how your complaint was dealt with.

They might be able to change the decision that was made about your complaint.

This document has been made with the help of

KeyRing
unlocking potential

Email us at enquiries@policeconduct.gov.uk, call us on 0300 020 0096 or see our website www.policeconduct.gov.uk for more information.